The fourth sales quarter of 2024, which included Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, and Christmas, witnessed record-breaking online shopper numbers. Retail ecommerce sales in the United States reached approximately 352.9 billion U.S. dollars, the highest quarterly revenue in history.

The landscape of spending events has evolved beyond traditional holidays. With fierce competition, you need to target holidays and events throughout the year to successfully grow your online business.

As we step into 2025, it's time to plan your holiday marketing strategy. To streamline the process, we've compiled a Holiday Marketing Calendar with a quick summary of dates and holidays, setting the stage for 2024 to be your most profitable year yet.

A well-organized marketing strategy, including a Holiday Marketing Calendar, is key to reaching your target customers and marketing goals for specific events throughout the year. Organized marketers are 674% more likely to succeed in their campaigns. Let's explore the benefits a proper marketing calendar brings to your game:

- It keeps you well-organized, ensuring your marketing team stays up-to-date with upcoming campaigns, sales, and other marketing activities.
- Consistency, combined with set goals, ensures better work efficiency and results.
- Detailed planning includes key metrics surrounding campaigns, such as costs, social media posts, and content marketing plans.
- A well-planned strategy allows you to stay flexible and adapt to changes.

This comprehensive holiday marketing guide will provide you with the tools and information necessary to generate successful holiday marketing ideas and capitalize on the financial opportunities within online retail. Let's embark on this journey together – it's time to get started.

When to prepare your marketing for the holiday season

Timing is everything, especially when it comes to holiday marketing. It's like preparing for a marathon; starting well in advance sets you up for a winning race.

Picture the winter holiday season, which lasts from Thanksgiving to the New Year, as your prime time. Smart ecommerce stores begin their holiday marketing as early as October.

Think about it – millions of shoppers, ready to fill their carts with gifts and goodies. This is your chance to triple your profits, but only if you're prepared.

And hey, holidays aren't just about the end of the year. There's a whole calendar year filled with opportunities to connect with customers, old and new. For instance, January's all about love, with Valentine's Day front and center.

The best time to start planning for it? At least six weeks ahead. This gives you ample time to craft those perfect campaigns and promotions that will woo your customers.

This is so you have enough time to plan and execute your campaigns, including Social Media campaigns, video content, newsletters, and blog articles. You can also upgrade your business product assortment and main offers and make adjustments when needed. For example, you can be flexible enough to add some viral finds to your store or adapt memes for your social media!

Plus, creating content for SEO visibility should also be a part of your pre-Valentine's preparations. This may take up a lot of your time, but it will help you rank high in searches for related keywords, such as "gift ideas for Valentine's Day", and put your business ahead of the competition.

While others are looking for the perfect gifts for their loved ones and friends and spending their money, you should consider driving all these people to your store.

The holiday season is a crucial time for ecommerce businesses. It is a time when you can significantly increase your sales, but only if you prepare your Holiday Marketing Strategy beforehand.

How to build a holiday marketing strategy that works

Ready to turbocharge your online sales? Center your strategy around products that are holiday favorites, watch your pre-holiday sales soar, and play around with flexible discount rates.

Get creative with your product catalog, and remember, our team is here to lend a helping hand.

To set realistic goals for the upcoming holiday promotions and launch a good holiday marketing campaign, decide which product categories to discount. Also, know what items to sell as your unique holiday products.

This is one of the most fun parts of preparing your online store for holiday spending and booming sales. Explore categories that thrive during the holidays and browse the vast selection of products in our Catalog or take advantage of our holiday packages. Think of what works best for your brand and add those items to your store within minutes.

Don't just follow the trends; set them. Craft a gift guide that sparks imagination and guides your customers to the perfect choice. And remember, those post-holiday shoppers aren't looking for massive discounts right away. A thoughtful free shipping offer or a charming discount can be just as sweet.

A successful holiday marketing campaign takes effort, time, and patience. One thing's for sure – the benefits outweigh the time and effort you'll spend.

Develop amazing holiday campaign ideas to boost sales and increase your chances of making each quarter of the year profitable. Focus on early planning and execution. Implement various strategies and marketing channels, including SEO, social media platforms, email marketing, and content creation.

Targeting

Post content

85% of holiday shoppers prefer free shipping over fast shipping. Since this is one of the main factors people consider, you need to implement it into your holiday promotions. From free products and free shipping to gift cards and exclusive deals, people will gladly interact with your brand and content to get something for free.

Preparation is key to running successful holiday marketing campaigns. Start early, make an action plan, and stick to it. If a great new idea arises, write it down for later consideration.

Holiday marketing checklist

1. Understanding market trends and competitor analysis

- Stay Ahead with Market Research: Leverage tools like ExplodingTopics to stay on top of current trends and popular content. This knowledge is vital to tailor your marketing approach.
- Competitor Insights: Investigate other businesses' holiday campaigns. Analyze their marketing channels and gather inspiration from their successful strategies.
- Social Media Savvy: Monitor emerging holiday trends on social media platforms. Adapt your strategy by understanding customer preferences in your niche.

- Keyword Mastery: Utilize tools like Google Trends, Ahrefs, and Semrush for high-ranking holiday keywords. Incorporate these into your content to boost holiday traffic.

Holiday planning matters. Define a campaign theme and launch holiday marketing content well in advance. Digital marketing tactics are infinite, and they can help you shape a great holiday marketing strategy.

2. Knowing your audience

- Engage with Your Customers: Use surveys, comments, and direct messages to grasp customer preferences. Personalized promotions lead to higher engagement and conversions.

Understanding the key elements of your customer niche is one of the most essential steps before starting your holiday marketing campaign.

First, identify and organize your potential customers into groups based on their common characteristics, such as age, marital status, interests, and occupation. This information can make or break your campaign.

Your main goal is to get your target audience to remember your brand and its offers before the holiday shopping season begins.

3. Crafting a content calendar

- Plan Ahead: Organize your content with a detailed schedule. This prevents last-minute rushes and maintains a cohesive message throughout the season.

Create a diverse content calendar, including exclusive offers, product highlights, and holiday guides. Design early campaigns to blast all over social media platforms. Direct customers to your store landing pages with the best deals before your competitors have even considered them.

Ensure a seamless customer experience, from a well-prepared website to custom landing pages and optimized media channels, to maximize engagement.

Targeted marketing efforts will pay off with a bigger brand reach and loyal customers. Strategically plan your sales and promotions and display them across multiple platforms to establish a cohesive identity and build a strong, trustworthy brand.

Unique offers and sales are holiday campaign ideas every business utilizes during the season. It's the main reason shoppers go to these stores in the first place – to score a special deal before the holidays.

Start preparing today – you'll thank yourself tomorrow!

4. Catering to all types of shoppers

- Early Birds and Procrastinators: Create specific campaigns for both. Use social media to tease early shoppers and create urgency for the last-minute ones.

You can plan your social media content for both early shoppers and last-minute shoppers. For the early birds, you can create teaser posts featuring your upcoming collection or promo bundles. These posts can also remind them to shop early and get their gifts on time.

Ultimate Social Media Marketing Tool

Capture attention and drive sales effectively with top-tier videos for TikTok, Instagram, and Facebook!

- 🎯 Ready-to-post viral videos
- 🎯 5.17 billion audience size
- 🎯 7x faster customer growth

Get started now

As for the last-minute shoppers, you can create and publish content for the days leading up to the event. This way, you can still reach the people who tend to forget about or procrastinate in buying gifts for their special someone. Try to make it fun and lighthearted by creating humorous posts, or inject a bit of urgency by adding lines like “last-minute gifts are still worth it!”.

Reward loyal customers with special prices and deals during the holidays. Include this brilliant idea in your holiday marketing plan to generate customer satisfaction, drive more sales, and ensure long-term growth for your business.

Offer early access to your holiday promotions, exclusive deals, and one-of-a-kind discounts, encouraging people to shop with you and return for future purchases.

5. Maximizing your campaigns

- Ad Strategies: Utilize targeted ads on platforms like Facebook and Instagram. Offer enticing discounts and connect personally with your audience.
- Cross-Marketing and Upselling: Encourage impulse purchases by suggesting related products, enhancing customer experience and revenue.

Ads are also important during the holiday season. Maximize your ad campaigns by targeting your specific audience and offering them discounts that they can't resist. This is also the best time to connect with your loyal followers on a more personal level and make them feel that they are truly being taken care of.

Let's look at the types of ads you can use for the holidays:

- Search engine ads. These are text and shopping ads on search results, with Google Ads taking the lead. They're displayed when a customer searches for something your store offers.
- Social media ads – images, videos, carousels, or stories – pop up on user feeds while scrolling through social media. This is a perfect way to reach potential customers during the holiday season.
- Display ads are banners and native ads displayed on your store page. They blend well with the rest of the content and showcase your special deals.
- Video ads. Promote your products through videos and streams. Show them before, during, and after advertising your store's epic features, deals, and discounts.

YouTube Video Marketing

Turn views into profits with our 50+ engaging, ready-to-use videos for trending products.

- 🎯 Reach 2.7 billion YouTube users
- 🎯 Improve your Google rankings
- 🎯 Convert 64% more customers

A graphic on a red background showing a collage of video thumbnails. The central thumbnail features a woman with long blonde hair. To the top left is a thumbnail with a robot. To the bottom right is a thumbnail of a smiling woman. A red YouTube play button icon is in the top right, and a red thumbs-up icon is at the bottom left of the central video frame.

If you have holiday-related posts that you want to get more visibility for, this is the best time to boost them on social media. If you have a Holiday collection and you want non-followers to take notice of it, you can create Facebook ads. You can target the correct audience and get them to check out your collection by showcasing your collection's pieces through a carousel post or an interactive video.

Paid advertising can make a huge difference to your dropshipping marketing and sales. Not only do ads make your products more visible, but they also allow you to target a very specific audience of potential customers.

Promote and sell products that perform best during the season. You can also target a specific audience by creating custom audiences based on age, gender, interests, income level, etc. This way, you can ensure that your content reaches the right people and drives more sales for your business.

The cost of acquiring new customers and generating new sales is a lot higher than upselling to existing customers. There's also a much better chance of selling to people who already trust your brand than selling to a completely new audience.

Upselling and cross-marketing allow you to make the most of every dropshipping transaction. These processes encourage impulse buys, which can boost your revenue in a big way.

More products, more sales!

Boost your business with our selection of proven best-sellers and potentially multiply your earnings by up to 25 times!

To upsell or cross-sell your dropshipping store, you should offer recommended products to customers before they check out. For example, if a customer adds a TV to their cart, a surround sound system and TV mount appear as recommended products. You could also offer a “customers who bought this product also like...” section to encourage customers to buy more.

Since the customer has already decided to buy, there’s a good chance they will be happy to increase their purchase.

6. Driving organic and retargeted traffic

- Engage Organically: Use hashtags and engaging content on platforms like TikTok and Pinterest.
- Retarget Wisely: Focus on visitors who haven’t converted yet. Use targeted display ads to re-engage them.

When it comes to organic traffic, TikTok is also a great platform to use. You can post creative videos showcasing your collections and make use of the hashtag feature, which will help you reach a wider audience. You can also join existing trends to encourage people to check out the gifts that you have to offer this holiday or special event. For instance, you can post a satisfying video unboxing an order from your Holiday collection.

You can also use Pinterest days or weeks before the holiday to reach your target audience. Create boards related to this holiday and post images of your products as pins. This will help customers easily find what they are looking for and increase their likelihood of purchasing from you.

A promotional banner for Pinterest. On the left, white text on a dark background reads "1,000,000+ Pinterest Users Promotion". Below this, it says "Showcase your products to a massive audience with Pinterest promotion on high-traffic boards." Three bullet points with circular icons follow: "Exposure to 1M+ Pinterest users", "Pinterest-driven traffic boost", and "Higher search visibility". A white button with the text "Get started now" is at the bottom left. On the right, a large red 3D Pinterest 'P' logo is positioned over two smartphone screens. The left screen shows a grid of various product pins, while the right screen shows a pin of a person with long, wavy hair.

Retargeting is when you display relevant ads and marketing content to visitors who have been on your site but haven't taken any action. These ads appear on other websites after visitors have left your store. After visitors have been retargeted, they should have a 70% better chance of becoming customers on your site.

7. Effective holiday email marketing tips and tricks

- Strategic Emailing: Use a calendar to plan diverse email types. From promotional to informative, tailor each email to fit different segments of your audience.
- Email Marketing Tools: Utilize tools for automated responses and custom templates, making your campaigns more efficient and personalized.
- Impactful Emails: Use varied email types – from welcoming messages to countdown timers.

Email marketing drives direct engagement. Customers are more likely to return to your store if you offer them personalized value, such as timely holiday deals and discounts. Make sure to leverage holiday shopper enthusiasm by promoting coupons and big savings.

Set up an email subscription page to sign up new customers, and consider incorporating some of these potential email types into your holiday marketing campaign.

Email marketing isn't just a trend – it's an insanely profitable channel that can help you drive significant revenue for your online store. So, let's see how you can make the most of this powerhouse. Email marketing offers a great return on investment. According to a study by Campaign Monitor, for every $1 spent on email marketing, the average return on investment (ROI) is $42.

Create an email marketing calendar to know what type of emails to send out and when, while keeping track of the marketing metrics. Target specific customers or subscribers and improve their experience with well-planned emails, mailing lists, and schedules.

8. SEO for the holidays

- Keyword Optimization: Incorporate seasonal keywords to enhance visibility.
- Create Engaging Holiday Content: Blogs, guides, and holiday-themed articles can drive traffic and improve your SEO.

By creating holiday content, your business provides additional value for seasonal customers and carries more potential search keywords. The added value and visibility attract backlinks from other businesses, increasing website credibility and offering a competitive edge.

Create a holiday gift guide tailored to your customers' needs. Categorize all your seasonal products by possible choices people might look for, such as gifts for him, gifts for her, gifts for kids, gifts for pets, or gifts for myself.

This is a fun and creative way to showcase your products, improve your customers' shopping experience, and increase sales.

Use Google Analytics and other research tools to find relevant holiday-themed keywords. Add them to your content, titles, product descriptions, and headings to match user intent. This will increase the likelihood that customers will find your store or content organically.

9. Effective use of social media

- Goal-Oriented Campaigns: Set clear objectives for your social media efforts, be it increasing sales or enhancing brand loyalty.
- Influencer Collaboration: Partner with influencers who align with your brand, utilizing their reach to boost your campaign.
- Engagement and Personalization: Interact authentically with your audience, and tailor content to their interests.

A social media marketing calendar helps you organize and plan social media campaigns. It can be challenging to keep track of social media posts across multiple platforms, but with a social media calendar, you can prepare campaigns ahead of time and stay on top of deadlines and social media throughout the year.

Start by choosing and focusing on the best channels for your dropshipping business. It's best to start small, focusing on two or three channels, and giving these channels the attention they deserve. For dropshipping, visual platforms like Pinterest and Instagram work well to highlight your products.

Create clear social media goals and choose the platforms that best support them. Posting short video content on social media, like Instagram Reels or TikTok videos, is an excellent way to show your products in action. You should also try to gather as much user-generated content and social proof as possible. This will help your dropshipping brand build more credibility and trust. Working with brand ambassadors or influencers can be a good way to get this rolling.

500K+ Influencers Massive Promotion

Connect with 500K+ people through promo posts from top influencers on Instagram, Twitter, and TikTok.

- 🔗 Exposure to 500K+ engaged followers
- 🔗 Shoutouts on the top 3 platforms

Get started now

Because dropshipping requires no stock on hand, many sellers don't consider giveaways. However, a well-organized giveaway can help you attract more potential customers and traffic to your store.

There are many different types of social promotions that you can run. These include things like photo contests, hashtag contests, sweepstakes, and more. With the right type of contest, you could boost traffic to your store, increase social engagement or followers, promote a specific product, generate a bigger email marketing list, boost brand awareness, and more.

To run a successful giveaway, you need to choose a suitable prize. This should be one of the best-selling products that you offer to help you attract enough of the right participants. Once the contest is over, you can send all of your entrants a discount code. This might result in a lot of conversions.

Therefore, offering unique promotions and coupons is the best form of encouragement. The coupon doesn't necessarily need to be high value; however, a unique, personalized coupon will make the customer feel special.

10. Leveraging video and blog content

- Video Marketing: Showcase your products through engaging videos across various platforms, from unboxing to practical demonstrations.
- Blogging: Create content that resonates with your audience, driving traffic and enhancing your SEO efforts.

84% of consumers are convinced to buy a product after watching a brand's video. Video marketing is one of the most powerful ways to attract your audience's attention and get more people interested in what you sell.

We all felt tingly with the holiday spirit the second we saw the Coca-Cola trucks on TV with "Holidays are coming" playing in the background, or the cute family of polar bears advertising the zesty beverage. These are only a few holiday promotion examples involving videos that have stuck with us for years. They're cute, unique, and fun – the full holiday package.

You can use videos to show how your products can be used in real life. Post videos of the products in use, create how-to videos, and use videos to offer a more realistic impression of what the product looks like. This will help to engage your audience and build trust.

Your video can be shared on your social media channels, posted to your YouTube account, or used in ad campaigns. You can even get other content creators to unbox or review your products through videos. This will help you generate some important social proof.

Combine these strategies to create a dynamic and successful holiday marketing campaign. Focus on early planning, understanding your audience, and using a mix of organic and paid efforts to maximize reach and engagement.

Remember, the key is to start early, stay organized, and constantly adapt to your customers' evolving preferences. If your head is left spinning with ideas for holiday promotions, our work here is done. Any one of them is your key to a successful shopping season.

Good luck, and here's to a profitable holiday season!

BONUS: 2025 holiday marketing calendar

A detailed marketing calendar is a helpful tool that combines all your marketing efforts, plans, projects, tasks, and strategies in one place. It's the one source of information for you or your marketing team regarding all things planned for specific events on a weekly, monthly, quarterly, or yearly basis.

It will help you stay focused and organized throughout all the marketing activities.

To properly execute a well-planned marketing campaign, add important dates and events to your marketing calendar. These dates will help you coordinate activities and create an organized marketing plan for every important occasion throughout the year.

Keep in mind holidays (global and national), launch dates for new products, current trends, local events, and deadlines. Remember that people celebrate even the smallest things in life. If you include different special dates and events in your sales calendar, your chance of reaching a broader audience will be higher.

And don't forget about seasonality if it plays an important role in your business. It's important to keep seasonality in mind when planning marketing campaigns to prepare for them properly and not miss out.

Once you've marked the marketing calendar with important dates and events and listed all your marketing activities, it's time to take action. Generate ideas, plan your content, set roles within the campaign, and, most importantly – set deadlines for everyone to meet.

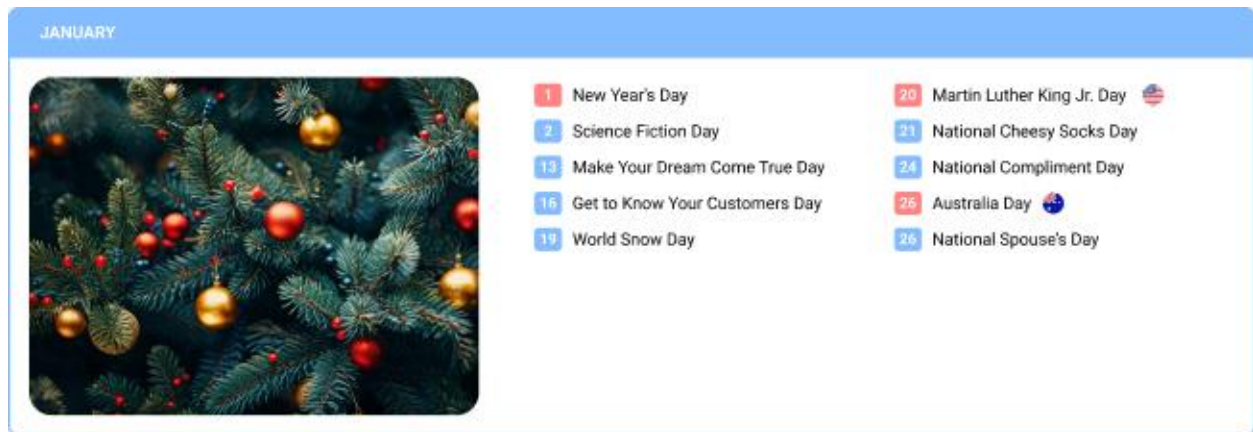

Think about the steps necessary for each activity and how long each will take. Plan every step of the project on your marketing calendar with precise deadlines so you don't miss a single detail.

Plan out what campaigns and channels you'll use, what type of content you'll need, and how long it will take. Deadlines keep everyone on their toes and the same page, helping them reach set goals in an organized manner.

We'll highlight some of the most important events each month so you don't have to. This way, you can focus on your marketing campaigns rather than research. Stay on top of the Holidays all year long!

Let's take a look at some important dates to keep in mind for each month of 2024.

January

Once the Christmas season is over, it's time to start the new year by focusing on the next big event.

The week leading up to New Year's is a goldmine for marketers. Why not create a "New Year, New You" campaign featuring products that can help your customers stick to their resolutions? Timely flash sales or a resolution-related contest could add some zest to your campaign.

January is all about new beginnings and resolutions for people who've decided to embrace a change. Important dates like New Year's Day (January 1) or Martin Luther King Jr. Day (January 20) should be on your marketing calendar so as not to miss a chance at sales of epic products.

Martin Luther King Jr. Day is a federal holiday in the US. It marks the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr., a spokesman for the Civil Rights Movement who fought for racial justice in the United States. To engage with your customers and show your support and inclusivity, consider a marketing campaign and special offers celebrating kindness and equality.

The Super Bowl (February 9) marks the culmination of each NFL season. For many, the annual championship game is the sporting event of the year. One in four Americans suggests the day after the Super Bowl should be declared a national holiday. You don't have to sell football-related products to target this event. Play around with the theme – share social media photos, offer a discount code, or let your audience know which team you're rooting for.

February 17 is Family Day in Canada. This day is a federal holiday when people celebrate the importance of family time for people and their local communities. It's not a huge spending occasion, yet it's an event you can use to communicate your brand values and celebrate by promoting some seasonal products for a cozy night with the family.

Every day is a day for loving your pet (duh!), but February 20 gives your customers an official excuse to flood social media with pictures of their cute companions. Create a vibrant, interactive social media campaign – maybe a “Paws and Pose” photo contest where pet owners can share the cutest snaps of their furry friends. Offer exclusive discounts or freebies to the winners. By indulging in the universal love for pets, you not only increase customer interaction but also create a fun-loving atmosphere around your brand, making it memorable for pet lovers.

17	St. Patrick's Day 🇮🇪 🇨🇦 🇺🇸	30	Mother's Day UK 🇬🇧

Put the lovey-dovey and sports stuff away for a while and appreciate all things green. March 3 marks World Wildlife Day, when we appreciate Mother Nature in all her glory.

Speaking of empowering female figures, circle March 8 on your marketing calendar for International Women's Day. This day celebrates women's equality and contributions to the world. If this message is important to your brand, be sure to celebrate it. Tell your story, offer a friendly discount, or run a charity campaign to support local or international communities.

Mother's Day is widely celebrated worldwide. While the rest of the world celebrates in May, the people in the UK send their mums a big bouquet of love on March 30.

The Academy Awards ceremony is one of the biggest events in the film industry. Use #Oscars2025 to talk about movies with your followers on social media or share comments about the show to help you grow brand awareness.

In many Asian countries, women celebrate Valentine's Day by giving chocolates and handmade gifts to their boyfriends, teammates, and friends. A month later, on March 14 (White Day), the men returned the gesture.

St. Patrick's Day, on March 17, creates a great opportunity for marketing campaigns and allows you to tap into a $7.2 billion market. However, be cautious with your promos and don't overdo it – some think St. Patrick's Day is becoming too commercial and misrepresents the Irish.

Eid al-Fitr is a Muslim holiday (March 29-30) celebrated around the world. It marks the end of the month-long fasting during Ramadan. On this day, promote gatherings for meals.

The advertisement features a central image of a smiling woman with curly hair wearing sunglasses and a yellow shirt. Surrounding this central image are several smaller, semi-transparent boxes. One box shows a pair of sunglasses with a price tag of 'US $69.99' and a five-star rating. Another box is labeled 'Targeting' and shows a living room interior. A third box is labeled 'Post content' and shows a bottle of water on a table. There are also plus signs indicating more options or features.

And of course, don't forget to add to your store assortment Spring Collections as March 20 is officially the first day of Spring. This event marks the first day of astronomical spring in the Northern Hemisphere. Cheer up your sun-deprived customers with a promotion. This is also a great opportunity to draw attention to seasonal products.

April

As the weather gets warmer in the second quarter of the year, we spend more time outdoors, making travel, festival, and wedding plans.

While that's a common scenario for people living in the Northern Hemisphere, people living in the South (like Australians) are gearing up for winter. Pick your campaign themes wisely!

And while Easter falls in April this year, let's first talk about other fun holidays – like April Fools' Day, for example. The month starts with jokes, pranks, and hoaxes – ideal for epic memes on your socials. It's a golden opportunity to connect with your audience in a more informal, lighthearted manner. Utilize this day to not only showcase your brand's funny bone but also to create buzz around your products. Consider launching seemingly "outrageous" products with a twist or advertising "unbelievable" deals that have a kernel of truth to them.

And, although we all know humor is the best medicine, the rest of April is dedicated to mental and physical health, marking April as Stress Awareness Month.

Celebrated worldwide, Sibling Day (April 10) honors the unique relationship among siblings. Like Mother's and Father's Day, Sibling Day is perfect for spoiling your brother or sister with gifts or an invitation to spend some quality time together.

Even though it's similar to Love Your Pet Day, National Pet Day (April 11) emphasizes supporting organizations that help animals in need. You can use National Pet Day as an opportunity to connect with your customers. Show the pets behind the brand or share your thoughts on why this day matters to you. You can also market pet-themed products for your animal-loving customers or highlight organizations you wish to support.

The Coachella Festival takes place over two weekends, April 11-13 and April 18-20. It's one of the biggest, most famous, and most profitable music festivals in the world. Held annually in California, it attracts many talented artists. If you sell items that can be marketed for festivals like these, prepare your store and offer some hot discounts!

In the end, after we've all had a good laugh and dedicated time to self-care, the whole world comes together on Earth Day (April 22) to show their care and appreciation for our planet. April is one of the most important months on your marketing calendar, as it is full of marketing opportunities.

April is National Decorating Month, an ideal time to promote your home and living products. People are keen on refreshing their living spaces, eager to infuse vibrancy and warmth into their homes after the long, dreary winter. Capitalize on this spirited month by highlighting your range of home and living products.

And what would a month of celebrations be without a proper ending? Prepare your Easter collection, celebrating the beginning of Spring and all things holy for April 20. Holy Week in 2025 starts on Palm Sunday, April 13, and ends on Holy Saturday, April 19, with Easter Sunday following on April 20. Here's a quick rundown of the dates:

- Palm Sunday: April 13
- Holy Monday: April 14
- Holy Tuesday: April 15

- Holy Wednesday: April 16
- Maundy Thursday: April 17
- Good Friday: April 18
- Holy Saturday: April 19
- Easter Sunday: April 20

Easter is often considered a more important Christian holiday than Christmas, and it's less commercial. However, with each passing year, business owners invest more time in preparing spring sales around Easter, offering special deals on seasonal decor and home goods.

Below this are three bullet points, each with a clock icon, and a 'Get started now' button. On the right, there is a large white envelope graphic. The top of the envelope shows a woman in a yellow jacket making a heart shape with her hands. The text on the envelope reads 'WE'RE FEELING ALL THE LOVE' and 'being part of our comm...' and 'some kind wor...'.

Cinco de Mayo (May 5) is celebrated in parts of Mexico and the United States to honor the Mexican Army's victory over France in 1862. If this date is important to your target audience, with a bit of creativity, you can tailor holiday promotions to suit your business.

Robert Schuman, a former French statesman and activist, came up with the idea for Europe Day (May 9). This day celebrates peace and unity in Europe, mostly through political debates and events that raise awareness about the role and history of the European Union. To celebrate, promote Europe-themed designs or launch a free shipping campaign to Europe.

While the UK celebrates Mother's Day in March, the rest of the world does it two months later. Just like in the UK, Mother's Day is an important holiday. In fact, it's the third biggest spending holiday in the US. This year, go the extra mile and put together heart-warming campaigns that celebrate the most important women in our lives – our moms. Remember that Mother's Day isn't celebrated on the same day around the world, so do your research before running promotions.

Memorial Day (May 27) is a federal holiday in the United States to remember and honor the people who lost their lives serving in the United States Armed Forces. Be cautious when creating campaigns around Memorial Day. Before you post that discount code or social media update, take a moment to re-evaluate the tone and nature of your promotion.

And, since we're starting the month off with celebrations, let's end it on a happy note with May 31 – National Smile Day. National Smile Day is a worldwide celebration of the universal symbol of happiness and positivity – a smile! This joyful day is a sweet opportunity to spread cheer and connect with your customers on a more personal level. It's the perfect occasion to host a smile-centric selfie contest, inviting your customers to flash their brightest smiles while featuring your products.

A smiling woman with dark hair, wearing a white button-down shirt, is holding a black smartphone. Behind her is a collage of four images: a beach scene, a desk with a water bottle, a woman working out, and a person in a field.

Melbourne Cup (November 4) is an official holiday in Victoria, Australia, when schools and many businesses are closed. On this day, Australia celebrates the most popular horse racing events. It's not just about the horses, though – this event is known for over-the-top fashion (and hats!). If the Australian market is on your radar, consider creating colorful promotions or launching festive products such as dresses, skirts, or sunny visors.

Veterans Day (November 11) honors and thanks all military personnel who have served the US. It's a day to commemorate, not commercialize, so be mindful of your campaigns if you don't want them to become a PR nightmare.

Remembrance Day (November 11) in Canada, Australia, and the UK commemorates people who gave their lives in armed conflicts during World War I. Weeks before this day, many people wear red poppies pinned to their clothing as a symbol of remembrance. Once again, be extra sensitive when creating campaigns on public holidays like this.

Singles' Day, or Double 11, started as a student tradition in China in the mid-1990s. On this day, single friends would spend time together eating, going to movies, and shopping. However, November 11 took an unexpected and commercial turn in 2009 when one of the biggest ecommerce companies, Alibaba, decided to run its first Singles' Day sale. Fast forward to today, Double 11 is one of China's biggest annual spending events.

While not as commercial as Women's Day, International Men's Day (November 19) celebrates the achievements of boys and men in family, work, school, and other areas of life. International Men's Day is a good time to promote or add some best-selling men's products.

Celebrated nationally, Thanksgiving (November 27) originated as a harvest festival when the first pilgrims shared their food with Native Americans. Today, families and friends get together for a meal to give thanks for what they have. This day is a great time to stop for a moment and appreciate what you have. Many businesses use this day to thank their customers for their loyalty.

Black Friday (November 28) is the shopping day after Thanksgiving that is known for great deals and the crowds that go bananas for them. As an ecommerce business owner, you can't afford to miss Black Friday. The earlier you start preparing your Black Friday marketing campaigns, the better.

December highlights the busiest time of the year for ecommerce, as shopping is in full swing for last-minute Christmas gifts, holiday decorations, and celebration knick-knacks. The Monday after Black Friday, known as Cyber Monday, is the biggest online spending holiday to date. In recent years, people have been shopping more on Cyber Monday, and retailers offer even bigger discounts than on Black Friday.

Create a marketing calendar for December campaigns to make this month's sales more merry than scary. Don't forget about other dates that are overshadowed by Christmas.

Keep in mind that Hanukkah, also known as the Festival of Lights, is a holiday celebrated by the Jewish community for eight days and eight nights.

Green Monday (December 8) is the second Monday in December and one of the busiest retail shopping days in the US. It's the day when shoppers realize they only have around 10 shipping days left before Christmas. That sense of urgency translates into online sales as consumers rush to complete their holiday shopping lists.

Luke Knowles started the National Free Shipping Day (December 15) in 2008. He realized that promoting free shipping and guaranteed Christmas Day delivery would encourage online shopping. The event was successful and became one of the top 10 highest-earning days in ecommerce during the holiday season that year. Join thousands of other ecommerce retailers in promoting National Free Shipping Day and see if you get more sales!

The Winter Solstice (December 21) is the darkest day of the year, so make your posts and campaigns bright and welcoming to create positive vibes. Use hashtags like #WinterSolstice, #WinterSolstice2024, and #Winter2024.
